Summer Fete Splash

The sun shone all week. Saturday 19 July came and the rain rained and rained then rained a bit more. But the people of All Saints' are hardy types and the summer fete went ahead anyway! Despite the rain and a number of people not braving the elements and staying at home, the fete raised over £500 - not bad for the stormiest, wettest day of the year. The cake ladies deserve particular mention - the general public weren't coming into the church hall, so they took the cakes out into the square in the rain and sold them outside and that alone raised over a third of the total made! Another busy area was the knitting tent - and not with just your average 'typical' knitter... more on that next time. Thanks to all who helped to make the fete so successful - it was definitely worth it!
