Art Exhibitions

From September 5th until October 16th Terry Howard's recent paintings. This will be Terry's third exhibition with us one of our most popular local artists. The following exhibition will be Colin Monk's Fence of Trees. October 17th until Nov 27th. The exhibitions are displayed in the Welcome Space and will be open daily from 09.30am to 5.00 pm and also on Sundays after the morning services.

'Extraordinary Lives of Ordinary People'

Helen Lloyd plays brief audio extracts from life-stories she has recorded for the BBC, the National Trust, and other organisations, in a whistle-stop tour through the 20th century. She uses these examples - some funny, some sad - to discuss the pros and cons of oral history. SATURDAY 24TH SEPTEMBER AT 3 pm in Church with tea, coffee and cakes, all for £3, in aid of the Vicar's Discretionary Fund. (Pay on the door.)

Space for a new group

All Saints Community Projects is keeping the Thursday morning session available for a new activity for pre schoolers. So if you have something exciting for the 0 - 4 age group and would like to set up a group on Thursdays please contact Pat 078 144 755 99 and we'll help to get you started.

All Saints Stay & Play

The Tuesday Stay & Play will re open on September 6th at 9.30am

I Love Kings Heath

The young people from the All Saints Youth Project went and took photos of what they thought makes Kings Heath unique and special. They took photos of the All Saints Church and The Village Square and compared them to old photos. The young people interviewed staff, children and people of the community about what they find interesting about Kings Heath. The result is a short film entitled "I love Kings Heath" Please have a watch and celebrate being part of Kings Heath!

Harvest Sunday October 9th

All Saints celebrates harvest with a service at 10am. We regard this as a thanksgiving service with a hard political edge. I regularly receive calls from people in need, like a woman yesterday whose benefits have been delayed for one reason or another. The Job Centre suggest to them that they call us for help with gas, electricity or food. You can imagine my frustration that, on the one hand we cannot help wanting to assist someone in that position, but equally, we do not always feel we should underwrite a government's meanness. We do help where we can, often through referrals to our local Foodbanks. We bear the irritation, even anger, when we are told by Ministers not to exaggerate or complain, while it is clearly policy for Job Centre staff to send people to us. We feel for those Job Centre workers who simply want to help the person in front of them. Harvest also has an edgy feel because it brings us up close to environmental concerns and the politics of the commodification of food.

To remember those who grow our food is all the more important in the city where we can easily feel distanced from the earth by layers of plastic packaging.

That is why we encourage friends and neighbours to bring home grown fresh produce the day before which we use to decorate church, then sell after the service raising funds for the Narthex Foodbank at Sparkhill.

We also bring gifts of tinned and dried foods and Shampoo, Toothbrushes, Toothpaste, Toilet roll, Feminine hygiene products, all of which the Foodbank distributes with care and respect to people of many different backgrounds. they need about a ton of food a month.

Whether or not you share the Christian faith or care for the Church's way of expressing gratitude for creation, you may share some of these concerns and wish to support those experiencing hardship in our neighbourhood and beyond.

Food gifts can be brought to All Saints in time for Harvest. Of course, all are welcome at the service, too, but we are always humbled to share in humane service with all neighbours of good will, however diverse our beliefs.

David (Vicar of All Saints)
